- Additional Information:

- I am a self-taught Web Developer/Designer specializing in PHP and MySQL who is currently living in Aberdeen, Washington. I've had no formal training but have obtained my GED. I've had around 9 years of experience with PHP and MySQL. I have had around 11 years of experience with HTML and CSS. Some of my more recent skills include

XHTML and some XML work. I also have a basic knowledge of Flash from a design standpoint. I can design basic flash objects for use on Websites and other media. Most of my experience is in the Apache+Linux environment but I have also used a few other server software's. I have also done some work on Windows systems but at current time I do not know much of anything about IIS. I am a strong believer in standards-compliant Web design. Any Websites I create I try to make as cross-browser friendly as possible and accessible to disabled users. I have gained the knowledge I have now by reading books, reading writings on the Internet, and a lot of trial and error. I'm not a do-it-quick type of worker. I prefer to do things the right way, the first time. However, I can meet deadlines when required. I have thus far not done any official work for any companies or persons but I have done many projects using my skills. I have created my own personal blog site and have helped program and design many other sites varying in complexity for friends and co-developers/designers. I should also mention that I am willing to learn and/or improve my working knowledge of any programming languages and/or other technologies required for a job. I don't consider myself an "expert" but I do believe my skills are good enough to prove useful in a real-world environment. My sights have been set on a career in the Web Development/Design field and I hope I can put my skills to work for a good company.
